Largo, Florida - You may be waiting until after Thanksgiving to hang the holiday lights, but Nick Schriver started November first.

"We are estimating to do five million lights this year. We are closing in on Thanksgiving and two to three already up," says Schriver.

Four years ago he began brightening up blocks, stringing lights and illuminating homes.

But Schriver says you don't need a million lights, a million bucks or a big crew to make your home sparkle. His prices start at $600 and go as high as $10,000.

Check out the video story for some advice and tips, from Schriver, to make decorating easier on those that are going at it alone.
